Hazardous Weather

Hazardous Weather

If strong storms develop, large hail and damaging winds are the main concerns, but a brief tornado cannot be ruled out either. Greatest risk north of Interstate 10 from 8pm to 2 am.

Scattered showers and isolated thunderstorms this morning will diminish as a cold front exits to the southeast. Strong north winds will develop behind the cold front. A Small Craft Advisory is in effect today for the bays and coastal waters. Highs will be in the 70s.

Hazardous Weather

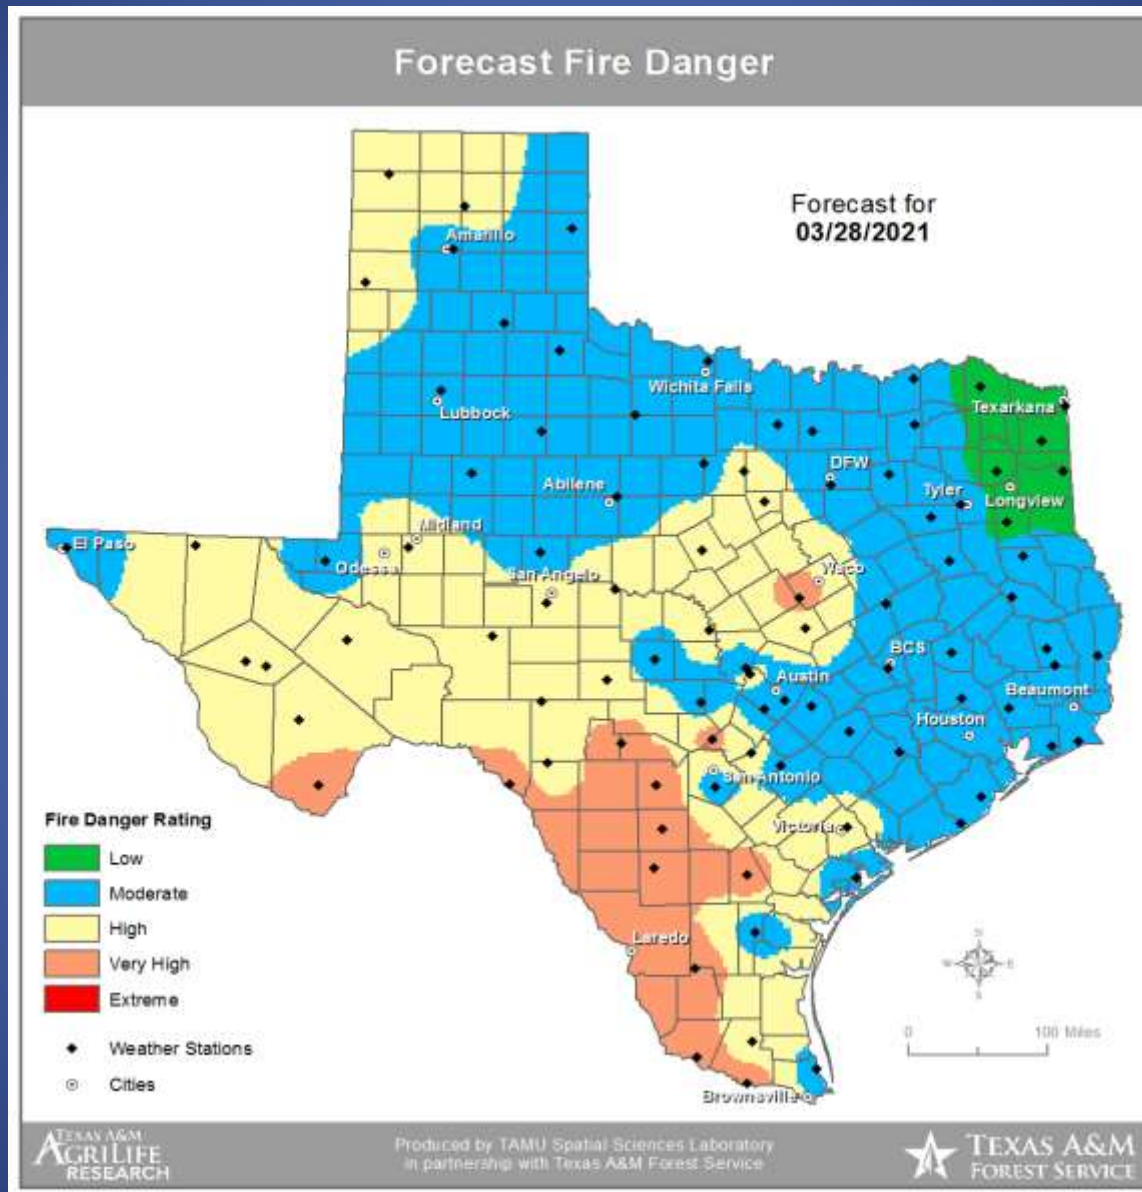

The passage of a cold front through Deep South Texas and the Rio Grande Valley today will bring scattered showers with isolated thunderstorms and cooler temperatures. Meanwhile, along the Lower Texas Coast, mariners will encounter increasing winds and building seas with Small Craft Advisory in effect.
